PROVINCIAL AND CAPRICIOUS STANDARDS AS SHOWN IN "THE CONGREGATIONALIST" OF BOSTON—INDIAN COMMISSIONER SMITH, PACIFIC MAIL, SPENCER, PINCHBACK, ROBESON, AND THE FROST-ABBOTT CONGRESSIONAL CONTEST.

To the Editor of the Tribune

SIR: The fifth instalment of reform tackle which has degenerated into slander I shall take from the Congregationalist, a religious newspaper published in Boston. Let the premise, however, that this paper seems not to have labored downunto these depths of demoralization to which the proceeding journals have a strange alacrity in diving. They have a definite and malignant purpose in their touch-work. The Congregationalist seems rather to be striking out wildly; but on mass, under the impression that all is necessary and continuous as thunder is the lightning, which is the price of liberty, and the guard of virtue. Where the fulminations which is the price of liberty, and the guard of virtue. Where the fulminations of other journals plot assassination the Congregationalist only commits assault and battery with intent to show off. Two principles apparently guide its course, one is always to believe ill of its own political party, the other is never to believe ill of the own personal friend. Following this clew one can thread the labyrinth of its political faith without losing its equanimity or its temper. Now three is credited tenth parts of township No. 42, in Washington County, called No. 10, in the 6th division of Township No. 5, East of the Penobscot River, containing 23,040 acres of land, more or less, situated in Township No. 5, East Division, or the 23rd in Township No. 7, East Division, or the 42nd in Township No. 10, East Division, of the 2nd Division of the Washington County.

In the District Court of the United States, for the District of Maine. In the matter of NOAH WOODS, of Bangor, Bankrupt. In Bankruptcy.

District of Maine, ss. A meeting of the creditors of said Noah Woods will be held at the Register's office in Bangor, in said District, on the 4th day of June, A. D. 1877, at 10 o'clock A. M., before Register Hamlin, for the purpose of the choice of assignee, the proof of debts, the examination of the bankrupt, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

And notice is hereby given to all persons indebted to said bankrupt that payment of any debts due to him must be made to the assignee when appointed, and that the delivery and transfer of any property by him to them are forbidden by law.

And notice is also given that a dividend of per cent. on the claims proved against the estate of said bankrupt will be declared and paid to creditors by the assignee within thirty days after the first meeting of his appointment.

And a composition of one per cent. on the claims proved against the estate of said bankrupt will be declared and paid to creditors who shall have proved their claims after the first dividend shall have been declared, and who shall present proofs of their claims to the assignee, and receive their proportion of said composition and dividend, and no more, before the second meeting of creditors, at which the bankrupt will be required to attend and submit to an examination, and the proposed composition will be considered, and a vote taken for the acceptance or rejection thereof; and all proofs of claims not presented before the second meeting of creditors will be disallowed, unless the bankrupt shall, in his application for his discharge, specifically request that his discharge may be delayed for the period of one year, pursuant to the provisions of the Act of Congress.

Given under my hand at Bangor, in said District, this 10th day of May, A. D. 1877.

cal cormorants lying by public plunder. Yet the Nation charged Mr. Smith with lack of uprightness, with attempting to corrupt the commission that was to investigate him; with lying the

"New bleeching process, clean and brief
To wit—a jury chosen by the sheriff"

with abusive and evasive conduct, and with other improper proceedings anything but characteristic of a Chieftain hero. But the Congregationalist refuses to relinquish its faith born of personal knowledge. In Mr. Smith's integrity. It stood by him living. It stood by him dead, and proclaimed that faith like a man.

But a man outside of the Congregationalist's acquaintance, a man of character as spotless as Mr. Smith's could have been, and of reputation infinitely wider and greater, a man as well beloved and as highly esteemed by Boston clergymen outside of the Congregationalist's office as Mr. Smith's was within—such a man was attacked by the same political cormorants in numbers as much larger and with a malice as much deeper and greater, and the press to be gulled by his calm inner calumnies, and when this man came out of the Valley of the Shadow of Death, the Congregationalist could afford a sneer.

The same paper averred Speaker Kerr to have been "amply vindicated from the calumny which it had ventured to assail in his public career;" while Secretary Robeson pays the penalty of belonging to the own party for not to the circle of its personal friends by suffering the odium that there is no logical doubt as to his guilt. Yet Speaker Kerr was vindicated, I do not say unjustly, or by upon its own declaration of innocence, while Secretary Robeson has been pronounced exonerated by examination into the affairs of his office, a tribunal not entirely satisfactory to private parties, by a hostile House of Representatives.

When Mr. Republican Senator has received from a the Secretaryship to whom and indictage for the defense of the cattle had been denied. If the party pa*thetic*ist was shocked at The party pa*thetic*ist modest little sum of seven [illegible]

Common people might think there must be a very short way of reasoning in regard to this, and that if Mr. Pinchback be Senator enough to draw salary and mileage, he is Senator enough to be sworn in; Senator enough to hold Senator enough to deplete the public treasury to $20,000 in the name and under pretense of mileage. But common people only know common honesty. And point out to us a different standard altogether.

This is [illegible] observer, whom nothing escapes, whom no calculation deceives, who never expects to see the light of day [illegible] and does not expect to see the secret sins of the Senate.

The simple fact in this case doubtless is that the Republican majority of the Senate think it will shave a little off upon which something of somebody form Pinchback would be two men to pay. It was a Republican seat, contested by a Democratic House, and it would seem as if all the contestant might be expected. Whatever services Mr. Pinch rendered, he had no right to render them, and one would expect to find the Congregationalist maintaining that if he were not Representative enough to be Representative at all, he was not Representative enough to deplete the public treasury of $7,000 in the name and under pretense of law, but ought rather to be fined heavily. On the contrary, Mr. Frost not only pays no fine but takes his $7,000 for occupying the seat to which the House has decided that he never was elected, and to which of course he has not, and never had, any legal right; and is besides awarded $2,000 extra by the House for the expenses of the contest; and the Congregationalist, so far from blaming him for taking it, or the House from paying it, expends all its wrath upon the wrong done by the House in not compelling him to send it back. It glares its excitation "To have been a piece of political trickery for which any party ought to be ashamed." How is this? One illegal contestant is to be heavily fined for contesting, and the other is not only to go scot free but is to be paid without protest and held up as a martyr? Twenty thousand dollars for three years and a half is bribery, but $60,000 for one year is the first step to justice.

Not so. There is method in the Congregationalist's wiggle-waggle. Its law of congregationalist's wiggle-waggle. Its law of political action is manifestly for the [illegible] its own friend. Poor Mr. Pinchback was a "way-down-in-Louisiana," and of course could not have a word to say for himself, while Mr. Frost was the Congressionalist's neighbor in Chelsea. The old custom, then, of paying "illegal contestants for seats in Congress is to be abolished and the Congregationalist's new law is to be established, that the contestants, the unsuccessful litigant, shall not only have the mortification of losing his case, but shall be mulcted in a heavy fine—unless sick contestant live in Chelsea or be otherwise within the decree of the Congregationalist, in which case the fine shall be remitted, the illegality shall be pronounced politics, trickery, and the wage shall be paid in full, with a bonus to boot.

When Col. Ingersoll went down into Maine the Congregationalist, of the profound ignorance as to what manner of speaker he was and of character as to his entire ignorance as to what manner of speaker he was any disqualification for Judgement, but, eager to repudiate Maine Massachusetts politics of late so effective, hastening to suggest that it was "weak and illadvised for whatever Republicans were responsible for the act to import such a man as Col. Robert G. Ingersoll from the interior of Maine to make a campaign speech there for reform." But Mr. Ingersoll swept through Maine, and he swept through Illinois, and through the crowds that lay between, and by and by Boston was shocked and rubbed its eyes, and found that this man whom Maine had imported was a "wonderfully gifted orator," had made "eloquent and thrilling addresses" in a "remarkably and startling manner," and struggle to say, Subject from put down by Boston's solid disapprobation; and then Boston, too, was smitten with the fine frenzy, and chuckled at the heat of his garment-rending by, and could not get at him for the press, and was forced to assuage its "great displeasure" by filling column after column of its newspapers with what the world have said if he had been there, and the thunders of applause they gave him in Chicago, and later still, when the people's elect on was over, and the electoral commission's election was "over, and there was nothing in particular to do, Mr. Ingersoll had time to come to Boston, and through to his old friend it seemed as if his lies I was shorn, and his eyes were put out and he was bound in fetters of Chelsea, and to grind in the prison house with great Boreg, to make sport for Philistines, and realized not that the Lord was departed with his strength, and brilliant attention and [illegible] and his command of the most exalted [illegible] and his audience was entranced, and the people were not hungry and thirsty for [illegible] and [illegible] up [illegible] Congressionalist [illegible] last week and [illegible] into New England.

When President Grant, [illegible] among the wooden statues of Congress, was not on the way and it capital, created by Senator Buckingham, that [illegible] of dear old [illegible] name was in all circles a [illegible] Congress was entirely consistent with [illegible] views, accepted the [illegible] detected no symptoms of [illegible] fashion to pay generous hospitality no stigma. But when the same President [illegible] Maine's [illegible] was welcomed and entertained by the Speaker of the National House of Representatives, was outside of the Congregationalist's guild, that astute oracle, [illegible] anew with the large-minded, fragrant Pauline charity which [illegible] to the [illegible] below the surface, and saw in the hospitality an act which would [illegible] to bring the most [illegible] notice as to confer [illegible] upon the guest.

Let me not [illegible] for a moment; he supposes, by [illegible] or [illegible], to say one word against the Congregationalist's [illegible] and [illegible] of its devotion to the ends of its devotion to [illegible] held to none in its [illegible] reverence for Buckingham—I sweep, could I [illegible] Massachusetts [illegible] [illegible] Mr. Smith, less found rest from his persecutors, and where, without personal knowledge, I would gladly mumble, for Speaker

A MERITED REBUKE.

On our first page to-day we print another of Gail Hamilton's letters on the the kind of reform that degenerates into slander," and many of our readers will be pleased to find the Congregationalist receiving a deserved rebuke for its 'pharisaical dabbling with politics. We have never seen a more graphic description than that given in this letter of the style of Republican journalism which is ever ready to invent vices for the opposition. While always insisting upon placing the worst construction upon every act of its own party. In the case of the Congregationalist this habit is linked to the other trait of championing personal friends irrespective of their merits, while venting upon other people's friends the most unmitigated epithets, whenever it is profitable to "throw off" in behalf of "reform." The political columns of the Congregationalist have furnished frequent texts of late for equally effective lectures upon its inconsistency and ingratitude, and the quiet but severe scoring applied to it by Gail Hamilton will be enjoyed by many of its own most intelligent readers.

It is amusing to notice that the "reform papers" who have been so mortally scalped with their own burning knives by Gail Hamilton hasten to pay tribute to her ability by declaring their disbelief that a woman could have dealt with them so effectually, and charging that Mr. Blaine inspired author of her letters. We can assure the unhappy victims that the lady is here all to herself, and has no need of assistance from Mr. Blaine or any other man," and that she has brains enough of her own to stock half a dozen "reform papers" established and all guarantee each of them more earnestness than either can boast at present. A brief conversational exercise with Gail Hamilton would convince the gentle Goldie, the piratical Bowles or the Pecksniffian Mcdill, that the lady pieces I to find the Congregationalist receiving a deserved rebuke for its 'pharisaical dabbling with politics. ANOTHER SKEPTICAL WOMAN.

By far the ablest and soundest Republicanism that finds its way into the columns of the N. Y. Times, is furnished by the pen of "Grace Greenwood," the well-known authoress, who is a Washington correspondent of that paper. We make the following extract from her last article:

I have been having some very interesting and suggestive reading of late—a package of Southern papers that have come into my hands. They are so like in spirit and tone to the chivalric journals I used to read here in my younger days that I am quite rejuvenated over them. One article, however, reminds me that something pleasant has happened to a good many people since the good old days. It is a flowery appeal to all lovers of the "lost cause" to go on hand to hand and heart to heart with garlands and bouquets, to decorate the graves of fallen heroes of the sunny South, and to scatter over their rare exotics, moistened and hallowed by tears of the lovely heroines of the Confederate States—ALONE IN THEIR MOURNING," small caps," which mean that we if we are ever so ready with our conciliatory offerings and penitential tears, shall be counted out, like so many foolish virgins." Not a word in all this long gushing appeal about dropping as much as a spray of pessamine on the grave of a Union soldier—even for President Hayes' sake. But you do not ask their flowers. Our brave brothers, sleeping in despised Southern pits and sandy trenches. Since the purple parades, of patriotic remembrance, since the rich red rose of grateful honor may grow and glow for them no longer in those places which once knew them" in the North, let fresh fair evil graves be watered, and marked and forgotten. It would be a keen, alive sectional feeling to sentimentalize and strew posies over the poor fellows.

But the things which most impress me are accounts of, and comments upon, the Kemper county massacre. What is the point to be decided, then, and to simplify matters, we ask the editor of that pamphlet, to state frankly whether he charge is true or false. If it is true, the editor deserves all Gail has said of him. If it is not, he can say so very easily. Speak up, Joseph! Did you knowingly and maliciously lie when you wrote that paragraph about James G. Blaine?—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The brave Mississippians who attacked Judge Chisolm in jail, were prudent men. The Meridian Mercury (Dem.) says: "The advantage of Mr. Chisolm's position was seen and recognized by the mob with prudence, and some of the assailants reached with their guns around without exposing their persons, and fired around an angle, at random, into a hallway."

The Meridian Mercury says that a young gentleman murderer who followed Rosser into the jail, reckless the romance out of the story of the heroic defence of her father by Miss Nellie Chisolm, by, according to his account she "must screamed and hollered all the time." By all accounts she had gone with her father to the jail, had seen him attacked by assassins; had seen her young brother shot down; she had herself received a ball in her right arm, a charge of buckshot in the right leg, one shot in the face, besides a terrible bullet on the cheek from the butt of a gallant White Leaguer, her father was bleeding in her arms, her mother in deadly peril, poor little Johnnie lay dead at her feet, so the situation was serious, but she was 17 years old, and ought to have been ashamed of herself for "screaming and hollering," and clinging and struggling and hindering in that childish way. The same paper protests against Governor Stone going to De Kalb to look into this little matter, and respectfully submits that his proper place is in his office at the capital. It also pays a tribute to the magnanimity of the mob, in allowing the family of the murdered Chisolm to pack up his body and carry it home without a cent interference." Was scalping or disemboweling in order on that occasion?

A Southern Republican (?) oracle of the same date says: "The conciliatory policy which Mr. Hayes has pursued has compelled discordant elements, and made the United States of America one nation in fact, again name." Ahem!

A Northern Republican oracle, quoting the opinion of a very high authority, says of the President: "Now he seems all fairness, peace, and gentleness; but if there's any lawlessness—any rioting down South, let them beware! They will find what a heavy hand he has." There's a hand of iron within the velvet glove," What matter, may a woman ask, is it whether he has a hand of iron within a velvet glove, or a hand of velvet within a gauntlet of steel, when both hands are tied behind?

GRACE GREENWOOD.

NEW MAGAZINES.

WIDE AWAKE for June opens with Tyrant Tom, a decidedly jolly story by Mary L. Bolles Branch, for which Robert Lewis has drawn a spirited frontispiece. Equally jolly, and equally suggestive to papas and mammas, is A Nocturnal Lunch Flossy and Bossy and their way into and out of Great Tribulations. The pacing of this number are especially good. Mrs. S. M. B. Platt writes A Book about the Bad, Mrs. Wild on answers the universal query of children, What shall we do? Mary E. C. Wyeth contributes a prep for the country boys, Sheep-raising, and Multiples has one of his most amusing adventures, most amusingly illustrated by L. Hopkins. Child Marian is still in Rome Quinnebasset Girls, by Sophie May, reaches a climax of interest. And there is a delightfully funny illustrated paper, by Mr. Nellie Eyster, about Tong Sang Kow, a real little China boy of San Francisco, Cal. Perhaps the most noticeable article is No. X, of the Poets' Homes Series, concerning William Dean Howells, editor of the Atlantic. Four artists illustrate the paper. The school children will find in A Dream of the Centuries something specially adapted to their closing exhibitions. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The contents of LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE for June are light and varied. The number opens with two finely illustrated articles—the second of Lady Blanche Murphy's agreeable Rhine Sketches, and the concluding paper on the Valleys of Peru. A young Italian author, Edmundo de Amicis, whose name will be new to most American readers, but whose writings are very popular in his own land, forms the subject of an interesting article, which includes a translation of a deeply pathetic story. Under the title of Curious Couples, Rev. William M. Baker recounts some of his experiences as a pastor in the South. Albert Rhodes discusses the question of Chinese immigration, apropos of the colony at Beaver Falls, and Ethel C. Gale gives an account of the quaint suppositions still cherished by the Tyrolean peasantry. The stories are numerous, embracing the continuation of the Marquise of Lossie, The Lost Veloz, by Ita Aniol Prokop, A Love Chase, by Clarence Gordon, and the Priest's Son, by Tourguenieff. In the way of poetry there is a dainty bit of verse by Paul H. Hayne, a string of wedding sonnets by Emma Lazarus, and a Sleeping Song, paraphrased from Theocritus. The editorial departments are unusually full and interesting.

PORTER'S AMERICAN MONTHLY. This instructive and attractive periodical for June comes as usual laden with choice original articles, from the best writers of the day, on Education, History, Romance, Literature, Art, Science, Mechanics, Home, State and National Topics, with a happy sprinkling of Current Gossip. Wit and Humor—many of the subjects being finely illustrated, giving River, Mountain and Valley views of some portions of our picturesque America. The June number surpasses any of its predecessors, in matter of variety and freshness of thought. The first page bust of "The Mormons in the Revolution," from the vigorous pen of Charles H. Woodman. The second article, An Adventure in the Blue Ridge, by Marion Hall Marsh, is too interesting for its length. Beyond of a Westchester (New York) Homestead, by Charles Pryer, is a graphic pen-picture of a spirited girl, of Revolutionary times, rescued from a most perilous position. We notice the fifth paper on Architecture, from the graceful pen of Rev. Dr. Blackwood, with some nine-teen illustrations; followed by other interesting subjects, such as Angling for a Prize, Miss Warren's Mistake, Historic Legend of the Cedar of Lebanon, Sea Drift, Muslings, etc.

From the Governor of Massachusetts, formerly Mayor of Boston.

Boston, Dec. 1, 1866.

I have known Dr. Harrison for many years as a practical chemist. His statements are worthy of entire confidence. I have heard frequent and favorable mention made of his medical preparations, and have myself established a favorable opinion of them from medical authorities of the city, who employ them in their practice. I have frequently used the Peristaltic Lozenges, and think them to be a most agreeable and safe medicine.

CONCERT.

The Artistes Quartette.

I have the pleasure of announcing to the citizens of Bangor and vicinity, one GRAND CONCERT,

IN NOROMBEGA HALL,

Tuesday, May 22d, 1877,

by the POPULAR ARTISTE QUARTETTE of Boston, consisting of MISS C. T. KIMBALL, the accomplished Soprano of St. Kings Chapel, Boston.

MRS. G. H. OAKES. Mrs. Oakes' voice is a rare combination of exquisite texture, and she is a teacher as well as vocalist, her artistic position cannot be gainsayed.

MISS FLORA E. BAILEY. Miss Bailey is rapidly becoming by reason of her charming voice, and her ability to sing appropriately concerning Miss Barry, who is so favorably known to a Bangor audience she is a contralto at King's Chapel.

MISS JULIA A. WELLS. Miss Wells is to the Quartette what the sub-base is to the Organ—commanding a remarkably deep and powerful voice. She is contralto at Rev. Dr. Ware's Church, Arlington St.

The Quartette will be assisted by

MR. WALTER EMERSON, the young but already famous cornet soloist, and

MRS. J. P. WESTON, Accompanist and Musical Director.

The above although a comparatively new organization, have met with very flattering success in Boston and the West, during the winter just past, and their appearance here should be greeted by a full house.

Tickets 75 cents; Reserved seats, 85 and 50 cents, according to location.

Sale of tickets will commence at Tuesday Saturday morning at the Bangor News Depot, No. Kenduskeag Bridge.

A Terrific Storm

LOGANSPORT May 21 The most severe storm for years visited Marion Ind Sunday. Houses were unroofed trees uprooted and fences destroyed. A brick church nine miles north of Marion was demolished at the time was filled with people attending the drunkard service. The roof was uplifted and the walls fell in burying the inmates. The scene that followed was a terrible one. A young man was killed and ten or fifteen seriously injured.

PERU.

The Financial Situation

PANAMA, May 12.—The latest news from Peru is dated April 28th. At that time a very uneasy feeling prevailed in financial circles and fears of a crash were entertained. Pedro Berrales banker and merchant failed for a million and a half of soles. It is reported that others are involved. The associated banks here were thought to be in a precarious condition. Quarantine regulations are in force at Callao. Yellow fever and small pox also prevail at that port.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

The News Bucharest despatch says that [illegible] the Russians are in no hurry to cross the Danube at present. The indications are that no crossings further West than Hirsova will be attempted before June and probably not before the Czar reaches the army headquarters about the 7th of June.

A correspondent at Russian headquarters at Ploiesti telegraphs that the Czar's coming to join the army was altogether unexpected and the announcement created much surprise and satisfaction. He will be accompanied by the Czarowitch [illegible] Gortschakoff and a great part of the Diplomatic Chancellery.

The Grand Duke Nicholas' departure for Bucharest has been postponed in consequence of the Czar's visit.

An Alliance Negotiation

VIENNA May 21 It is rumored that [illegible] are pending [illegible] Germany [illegible] England.

A Turkish Charge

A Constantinople despatch reports that the Russians are committing frightful massacres in Caucassus.

The Attacks on Ardahan and Kars

The Telegraph's special from Erzeroum Saturday [illegible] the first attack [illegible] Ardahan [illegible]

[illegible] Russians commenced with a heavy artillery [illegible] This was followed by [illegible] infantry attacks which were repulsed [illegible] great slaughter [illegible] the troops [illegible] the assault after [illegible] night stopped the carnage.

From Kars we have intelligence that yesterday the Russians attacked the outer lines with furious determination having preceded their attempt by heavy but ill directed cannonade from siege artillery—the powerful guns in the Turkish batteries replied with better effect.

The Turks Burning Peaceful Towns

ST PETERSBURG May 21 The Grand Duke Michael telegraphs from Tiflis, May 20th as follows: Along the entire coast from Cape Adler to Cape Ptchentchyre the Turkish men of war are bombarding undefended and peaceful settlements and landing Circassian emigrants at various points who seek to excite the Abschasians to rebellion. Troops have been dispatched to suppress any rising. The Russians captured at Ardahan a Turkish Pasha [illegible] cannon including eight inch and a number of smaller Krupp guns.

The Next Attack on Batoum

The Telegraph's despatch from Batoum Saturday morning says: The Russians after making a great show of warlike intentions yesterday contented themselves with a harmless artillery duel. The fact was that the enemy had sent off 15 battalions in the direction of Sukum Kaleh in the hope of arresting the insurrection which spread from that centre. The defences of Batoum are quite unimpaired and the issue of the next assault looks [illegible] upon as a pretty certain victory for the [illegible]

The Capture of Ardahan

Ardahan was surrounded by heights commanding it within easy artillery range. The heights had been fortified, but when they were once taken the fortress itself became untenable. The Turks withdrew the garrison of 11 battalions and effected a junction with Mukhtar Pasha, in the direction of Erzeroum. The danger is the Russians in the neighborhood of Kars may waylay the returning force if they attempt to pass that way, but there is another and much more difficult mountain road through the Valley of the Olti which the retreating Turks will probably take.

The fall of Ardahan is of considerable advantage to the Russians for besides opening a line of communication with Akhaltzik, it will enable the Russians to turn the force hitherto operating against Ardahan towards Kars or take part in the combined operation against Erzeroum.

Roumania Declares War on Turkey

VIENNA, May 21 A Bucharest telegram announces that Roumania yesterday proclaimed her independence and declared war against Turkey, but will remain on the defensive.

PRUNING PLANTS WHILE GROWING.—Every one admires a beautiful form in a plant, an evenness of growth. If the plant is branches to give a fine balance [illegible] There are some plants whose habits are naturally straggly and uncouth. While they are growing a little nipping back of the leading branches with the finger, or with a pair of shears, will hold them in check while other branches will be encouraged to grow to the same size. The Lantana or Verbena for instance seldom makes a sightly shrub when left to itself although it is a favorite owing to its sweet scent and delicate green. By pruning back the lead ing branches it will soon grow into a well rounded closely formed shrub. If you wish it to grow tree shaped encourage it to grow tall by nipping back the end of side limbs till it has acquired the right height then to prevent growing one-sided and to make it well formed, nip back all the shoots that are out of balance. The same system can be applied to roses geraniums and in fact, to any plants that are desired to grow in to better shape. It is not at all necessary to cut branches off close to the stalk, in fact it is better not to do so. But a little nipping back of the ends of growing shoots is all that is required.

MOIST AIR FOR HOUSE PLANTS. Take a pail of tepid water every evening dip your broom in it and whisk it over the plants till everything is moist. Your plants will enjoy this bath and the insects will not. Insects dislike nothing so much as abundant dampness. The most trouble some enemy of all—the red spider—will soon leave for dryer quarters.

DANGEROUS PLAY. Many of our readers will remember an item published not long since in relation to an attempt to wreck the B & P train near South La Grange station. Within a few days the station master at that place discovered that the ties was placed on the track by two young boys brothers, aged six and nine years who were playing near the railroad and thoughtlessly put the tie across the rails and afterwards went away without removing it.

THE CONCERT to be given this evening by the Artistes Quartette, of Boston, will undoubtedly be a thoroughly enjoyable affair, the ladies composing it being among the best vocalists of the day. Mrs Oakes, who by the way, is a native of Brewer has a superb voice and in one of the numbers on the programme, the duett Dolce Comforto, her finest tones and execution are said to be shown. The cornet obligatos by Mr Emerson are a charming feature of the concert.

A SHEEP THIEF SHOT. A bear weighing 325 pounds was killed in Milo last Saturday night. For a month or more the animal had been raiding on the sheep in the eastern part of the town. Last Friday night he went into the yard of C M Herrick and killed three sheep, so Saturday night some six or eight men watched for him and at about 10 o'clock he put in his appearance. D B Tolman and C H Rollins each fired at him, breaking one leg and otherwise wounding him, when he started for the woods as best he could, the men following hard after. They chased him over a mile, and fired several bullets into him before he was brought down. Some sixteen sheep and lambs have been killed in Mr Herrick's neighborhood this spring by bears, and since the bounty has been taken off, they have been very bold.

FUNERAL OF EX-GOVERNOR KENT.

Services at the Church—The remains escorted by the members of the Bar—Attendance of Judges of the Supreme Court and distinguished citizens—The remains removed to Mount Auburn.

The friends and fellow-citizens of the late ex-Governor Edward Kent paid their final tribute of respect to his mortal remains yesterday afternoon, and the places that have known him here shall know him no more forever. At the appointed hour the members of the Penobscot Bar assembled in a body at the Bangor House with other distinguished citizens to escort the remains to the Unitarian church, the general order of ceremonies being under the direction of F F French, Esq. The seats in the body of the church were reserved for the relatives of the deceased and the members of the Bar and the other portions of the auditorium were filled with people, a large number of ladies being present. At four o'clock the solemn notes of the organ and the tolling bells announced the approach of the funeral escort and the casket was borne to a position in front of the pulpit the following neighbors and friends of the deceased acting as the pall bearers:

Hon Hannibal Hamlin
Hon John Appleton
Hon John A Peters
Hon John E Godfrey
Hon A. G. Wakefield
Hon. Hollis Bowman
W H McCrillis Esq
Charles Stetson, Esq
A W Paine Esq
Amos M Roberts Esq

The services in the church were [illegible] in the following order:

Organ Prelude
Prayer by Rev A M Kni[illegible]
Hymn by the Choir
Mrs Crowell, Mrs Butler and Mr [illegible]
Reading of Scripture [illegible]
Rev Mr Knapp
Hymn by the Choir
Prayer by Rev Dr Geo W S[illegible]
Closing Hymn

The services were rendered deeply impressive by their eloquent simplicity [illegible] most appropriate to the memory of one who had borne [illegible] years of life with the gentle [illegible] of Rev M Knapp [illegible] to the [illegible] Dr Field who had been for so many years [illegible] the fervor of his [illegible] that the lesson of the beautiful, manly life just closed may be fruitful of influence upon those [illegible] work on earth is still uncomplete!

MEETING AT CITY HALL

Discussion about the Water Power

There was a fair sized gathering at City Hall last evening in pursuance to call [illegible] meeting, the objects of which were stated [illegible] called to order. He referred to the [illegible] last week [illegible] committee there appointed had called this meeting to [illegible] measures for giving employment to labor and to what shall be done with our water power. He expressed regret that there was not a larger attendance of the business men of the city. He nominated ex Mayor Laighton to preside and that gentleman took the chair. Paul R Seavey was chosen Secretary and [illegible] address the meeting, saying that something should be done to rectify the mistake of not building a canal. He said that men of capital should start something [illegible] that the poor had suffered great [illegible] and the city should make needed improvements to give them employment.

Hon A G Wakefield was called upon but said he came to listen and not to speak. G W Merrill Esq said the water works were a good investment but the city had done its part. The water power must be developed by a company and citizens must take hold and do the work.

Dr Tefft said he was a friend of the working man was a working man himself. Believed the building of the dam was a good thing, but the city had gone to the extreme limit of its power. It cannot use a city raise another dollar to utilize the water power and it was useless for any one to entertain the idea that the city is bound to give work. He thought the city should give the surplus power to a corporation. Form a company with $1 000 000 capital, arrange with the city and go to work and utilize the power for the benefit of the population. He said the Board of Trade Committee that waited on the City Government found the authorities willing on proper conditions to give free use of the power to such a company.

A J Simpson, Esq, said there was surplus labor all over the country as well as here. He was in favor of the city keeping control of the water power but thought we might start manufactures such as pails, clothes-pins, etc. Let every man put his brain and money into it, but don't give it away to a company: give it to any of our citizens who will use it.

C A Neally, Esq, said the power was inexhaustible, believed it easy to start a company, there was no need to build the dam higher, believed the city would do well to give away the water power to increase the population.

Mr Wakefield corrected a remark of Dr. Tefft. The latter had said that the Holly Co., had stated that a five-foot dam was enough for the water supply, but that he and others had hushed the expression of that view and got the dam built to its present height with a view to future manufacturing. Mr. Wakefield said if we had a dam at all it was found necessary to have it about the height it now is. The time will come when we shall hear the spindles hum. The power of the other rivers is all in use and our turn comes next. He hoped the city would deal liberally with any party that would come here.

Mr Tobin said we want flour mills, paper mills pulp mills woolen mills, and as many mills as we can get.

Mr. Merrill thought Mr Simpson was mistaken as to the desirability of the city controlling manufacturing power. There is no factory in Lowell owned by the city.

Jere Fenno, Esq, said we had nothing to offer a company. We have a dam, but no canal. The city must have a plan before they can offer anything. Somebody must make a canal. It would not be a month after a canal was located on either side before the power would be taken by a good company.

Thomas White, Esq, said there were men in the hall who had not earned a dollar for months. Put these men to work he said, and in a short time merchants will tell you that business is good. The main thing, he thought, was a canal. He was willing to give $200 towards a canal and said if every business man would put into it what they pay for advertising they would get the canal and improve business.

Mr Tobin then moved that the meeting adjourn for one week and the meeting dispersed.

TRUE ECONOMY is not in buying the lowest price articles. The best is cheapest. So with the fine cultivated and plantation grown spices imported by Messrs. Pinckney Jackson & Co, of London and New York. I have just received a shipment of these goods and would specially invite the attention of all consumers to them. These spices are not only absolutely pure, but are without a doubt the finest ever imported into this country. I confidently recommend them as being really of unusual merit.
